

Preston Love, Jr. shares his knowledge and wisdom of Urban Communities. You'll learn why more people should be engaged in their communities and vote. This includes all of the positive virtues that can accrue.

"Preston Love, Jr., sacrifices personal gain in his efforts and commitments to his North Omaha community, without financial reward or the associated gratitude. His book defines the challenges and key efforts directed toward solutions. It is important reading for all people of conscience."

Dave Domina

Lawyer and recent candidate for the United States Senate (Nebraska)

"Preston Love, Jr. is more than a speaker, he is a communicator. He has a unique ability to break down complex or abstract issues into clear understandable information. He can be entertaining and very serious at the same time. Its a gift."

Ben Gray

Omaha City Council President

Poverty:

“We must rethink the ways we provide services to the poor. We must know the community residuals and devise new ways to deliver. Our services must adjust to the culture of poverty, not the other way around.”

Voter Participation:

“We must recognize and communicate the relationships of voting and taking action for our self interests. It is no longer about the right to vote, it’s about our need to vote.”

Civic Education:

“We need to return to educating our communities on relationships of their lives and the institutions that control them. I can share with you measures that we are successfully providing civic education to our youth.”

Economic Inclusion:

“Ultimately we must focus on economic health or we will spend time and money on fixing all the problems resulting if we don’t.”

Leadership:

“Let’s discuss the current forms leadership and your role.”
